

AGIIS Subset Extract (XML) File Format

Overview

The AGIIS Subset Extract (XML) file format provides an interface file from AGIIS that contains both the demographic data for each entity in the subscriber's subset and that entity's proprietary code. The subset is run on a self-directed, as needed basis by requesting the extract using the AGIIS Website. The "Request Entity Subset Extract" page can be displayed by following menu selections Files ... Schedule Extracts ... Request Entity Subset Extract. Note that the "Entity - Manage Extracts" privilege is required to use this functionality. Also note that if your subset contains more than 500,000 entities, you will need to contact Member Services to manually request the subset extract (an edit is in place in the web subset request functionality to prevent this because doing so during peak hours might impact general system performance). Once an extract has been requested an email is sent both to confirm the request and to notify when the extract is complete and available for download from the AGIIS EBID FTP site, ebid.agiis.org. Currently GLN and EBID subsets are supported. The definitions for the document's structure can be found in the <https://www.agiis.org/XML/namespace/AGIISSchema.xsd> document. The specific document type for the subset extract is the AGIISEntityFullExtract document. The XML schema definition is described in the document found at <https://www.agiis.org/Links/AGIISSchema/AGIISSchema.html>.

The header structure contains information specific to the document itself. It is used to communicate the unique id, the date and time the document was created, the sender and intended recipient.

The body structure contains an array of EntityInformation elements, one for each entity in the subset requested.

Sample Document

The following sample document is an abbreviated sample (only 2 entities of the subscriber's EBID subset are included for purposes of brevity).
